New Opportunities Opening up for Pediatric Chiropractic Care

OTZ Partners with ICPA to Offer Continued Chiropractic Training

[DALLAS – MAY 2013] One-To-Zero (OTZ) Health Education Systems has announced a special collaborative seminar with the International Chiropractic Pediatric Association (ICPA) to present occipital-atlanto analysis and diversified adjusting, also known as the OTZ Method, to take place July 20-21 in Philadelphia. OTZ trains chiropractors in the evaluation and care to improve nervous system function via the correction of occipital-atlanto subluxation. This subluxation pattern shows manifestation or dysfunction of the tissues involving the brainstem, the vagal nerve or cranial nerve 10 and the spinal accessory nerve or cranial nerve 11. When this occipital-atlanto manifestation is corrected, it seems to have an immediate impact on multiple disorders and behaviors.

The ICPA is a non-profit organization whose mission is to engage and serve family chiropractors worldwide through education, training, and research. The organization hosts seminars regularly throughout the world, which are taught from the vitalistic perspective, with great emphasis placed on clinical, hands on application. OTZ Health Education Systems has previously hosted seminars in the US, UK, Paris and Brazil, with the most recent taking place in Toronto last March.

Recently, Dr. Francis Murphy OTZ developer has had outstanding clinical success when addressing this subluxation pattern in children. He started OTZ Health Education Systems to “Train more chiropractors to analyze, detect and address this subluxation pattern in what could be millions of cases in the United States alone.” Dr. Murphy adds, “My staff and I have successfully applied the OTZ Method to hundreds of patients in my Dallas clinic. We regularly see patients from all over the United States and many other countries. This effective analysis and adjustment can be and must be more broadly available, and that’s why OTZ is here.”

The ICPA offers discounts to members who wish to enroll in their seminars, however all licensed doctors of chiropractic are invited to attend the workshop. Please visit <http://icpa4kids.com/otz> for more information and to register.
